

BOOK REVIEWS

Akiwenzie-Damm, Kateri. My Heart Is a Stray Bullet. Wiarnton, Ontario: Kegedonce Press, 2003. ISBN 0-9697120-9-x, 54 pp.

This is an engaging selection of work by Kateri Akiwenzie-Damm, a writer of mixed-heritage from Cape Crocker Reserve. Bringing together work produced between 1987 and 1992, the volume was first published in 1993. Its republication is richly warranted. Her work serves as an inoculation against a reading environment which now reserves only its remote corners for poetry. The restructuring of a commodified reading culture, however, requires that such work as Akiwenzie-Damm's be read. The immediacy of her access to memory and feeling, intimacy and lyricism, the ingenuity with which sensual and metrical properties are designed and related, sum up poetry that is powerful and confident. While her work clusters about the historically precedented, permanent, and inexhaustible issues of identity and purpose, Akiwenzie-Damm brings wonderful clarity and courage, not to speak of the unique perspective of a Canadian Indigenous person, to a very old discourse.

Writing poetry that holds the value of immediacy as fundamental runs the risk of obscuring the line between experience and art. While Akiwenzie-Damm hovers close to this virtually unseeable line on occasion, her work always succeeds in speaking powerfully and coherently. A fine accomplishment by one of Canada's most gifted young poets.

Alfred Fisher
Queen's University
Kingston, Ontario
Canada, K7L 3N6

Cummins, Bryan D. First Nations First Dogs. Calgary: Detselig Enterprises Ltd., 2002. 351 pp., illustrations, photographs, maps, appendices, bibliography, index. ISBN 1-55059-227-0 Paperback CDN$29.95.

First Nations First Dogs situates the importance of dogs within the culture and history of Native peoples now living in Canada. After providing an overview of canine domestication and a discussion on the lack of serious studies on Native dogs, Cummins uses the concept of anthropological culture areas to explore First Nation and dog interactions. Since this approach makes it difficult to delineate the differences between cultures within each zone, Cummins carefully highlights specific Nations' cultures and explains how each incorporated the dog not only into their daily lives but into their spiritual and mythological world views. He shows that dogs were not simply tools, but an integral part of the culture.

In the conclusion, Cummins notes that more sedentary societies, such as the Iroquois, treated dogs differently than those more mobile. Readers may be shocked by some of the accounts relating to the treatment of dogs, but Cummins gently reminds us that the written evidence is largely created by Westerners who generally held different views of dogs and their role in the world. He also contests the commonly held assumption that all Native dogs were simply half-wolf. To this end, he effectively undermines the myth that Native dogs, much like Natives themselves, reflected the more savage tendencies of their respective species. Additionally, he argues that Native dogs were not bred to defend private property but to work within relatively egalitarian societies. Hence domesticated dogs in Canada were bred and trained to become "hunting partners, draughts animals, source of food, provider of wool and companionship" (318). Overall this book is an excellent study of the role of first dogs amongst First Nations that should be of interest to breeders, academics, and non-academics alike.

Karl Hele
Dept. of Anthropology
University of Western Ontario
London, Ontario
Canada, N6A 5B8

King, Thomas F. Thinking About Cultural Resource Management: Essays From the Edge. Walnut Creek: Alta Mira Press, 2002.

Sometimes you have to create controversy in order for your voice to be heard.

In Thinking About Cultural Resource Management: Essays from the Edge, Thomas King candidly expresses his thoughts about his experiences and interactions with the United States' system of cultural resource management (CRM). King touches on everything from the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act, to the National Register of Historic Places, to CRM archaeology, as well as related legislation. Although many of King's discussions can be interpreted as brash and offensive, he reminds us of many obvious priorities in the CRM field (such as respecting other cultures) that have been ignored, forgotten and undermined. While at the same time, he offers suggestions for improvements (such as redefining various guidelines within the field) that are worth taking into consideration and acting upon. As such these points should be noted by professionals working in the United States as well as by everyone, regardless of nationality, working in the CRM field.

King reminds us what CRM should be about which is a lesson that is worth learning. I heartily recommend this book to those interested in the CRM field.

Christine Boston
118 - 475 Castlegrove Boulevard
London, Ontario
Canada, N6G 3R9

Nebelkopf, Ethan and Mary Phillips, eds. Healing and Mental Health for Native Americans: Speaking in Red. Walnut Creek CA: Alta Mira Press, 227 pp. 2004. ISBN 0-7591-0607-X.

This book is a comprehensive survey of current research and practice in mental health services for the American Indian and Alaskan Native communities. Its twenty short articles cover a broad gamut of topics in the mental and community health field, from substance abuse, the development of community facilities on and off reserves, community organization, recent initiatives in the healing disciplines specific to Native populations, incorporation of traditional modalities of healing, strategies for dealing with HIV/AIDS in the Native community, to summaries of research and statistical data. Nine of the articles are updates, abridgements or reprints of work first published in the Journal of Psychoactive Drugs vol. 35, #1.

The collection will serve not only as a guide to contemporary developments in healing practices, but as an introduction to modalities of practice that draw on the wisdom and knowledge of Native communities. Of particular value is the recognition of linkages between sickness of mind and body. This is made all the more startling, however, by an understanding of the provenance of each in historical trauma. This powerful idea is not at all the product of imaginative theorization, but of experience. One can argue the history; one can argue the theory. Both are trumped by experience.

Alfred Fisher
Queen's University
Kingston, Ontario
Canada, K7L 3N6

Oatis, Steven J. A Colonial Complex: South Carolina's Frontiers in the Era of the Yamasee War, 1680-1730. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 2004. ix, 399 pp., map, bibliography, index. ISBN 0-8032-3575-5 Hardcover CDN $74.43.

A Colonial Complex is an examination of the events leading up to and following the Yamasee War in the southeast. Throughout the work Oatis contextualizes the complex relationships along the South Carolinian frontier between the settlers, slaves, and Indian nations. 'Frontier' is a metaphor that evokes the discordance of events, people, relationships, and encounters wherever two or more cultures meet. In the southeast this 'frontier' included the British, Spanish, and French empires as well as a variety of Indian nations that spoke dialects of Siouan, Muskogean, and Iroquoian languages.

This conflict was not simply 'white verses red' and its outcomes were more complex than the relocation and annihilation of Yamasee communities. In essence the Yamasee attack in 1715 shattered South Carolina's complacent attitude that its Indians were under control and duly subjugated. The outcome of the conflict affected settlers and Indians in a variety of ways. The emergent Creek and Catawba nations as well as the more distant Cherokees were drawn further into the colonial system. The aspirations of the English, French, and Spanish were redrawn as well.

Oatis convincingly argues that the Yamasee War was not a conspiracy of Indians, nor was it a spontaneous conflagration. Instead, he shows that the Yamasee War was part of a colonial complex that bound colonists and Indians alike into a variety of relationships that played out along the frontiers of intercultural contact.

Karl Hele
Dept. of Anthropology
University of Western Ontario
London, Ontario
Canada, N6A 5B8

Sheffield, R. Scott. The Red Man's on the Warpath: The Image of the "Indian" and the Second World War. Vancouver: University of British Columbia Press, 2004. 232 pp., illustrations, notes, bibliography, index. ISBN 0-7748-1095-5 Paperback CDN $24.95.

The Red Man's on the Warpath is an excellent study of how various English Canadian images of the 'Indian' interacted to inform popular and governmental discourse. Sheffield begins his account in 1930 and ends with the immediate post-war Special Joint Senate and House of Commons Committee to reconsider the Indian Act. By framing the wartime images of the 'Indian' between these years, Sheffield shows how wartime needs, experiences, and political developments led to a limited reformulation of the stereotypes of the Indian. For clarity, the author also discusses the evolution of the public and administrative Indian. The public Indian image, in the pre-War period was divided, albeit not exclusively, among the vanished, drunken, criminal, and noble savage tropes. This public image changed as English Canadians became aware of 'Indian' participation in the war effort through the mass media's use of Native stories designed to shame non-Indians into pulling their weight, and to encourage Canadians during the seemingly endless German victories between 1939 and 1940. The 'Indian-at-war' image gradually generated a modicum of respect for First Nations people, and the war's end had led to public calls for Indian reform.

The administrative Indian, developed by Indian Affairs, in contrast shifted little during this period. For the Department, Indians, bereft of an ability to govern themselves, remained in need of supervision and a guiding hand. By war's end, Sheffield notes that the administrative Indian image was increasingly out of step with the public image. Nonetheless, despite the changes, the concept of the 'Indian' remained consistent in that it served the dominant society's needs and aspirations for the Indian.

Sheffield is careful not to claim that his book is a work of Aboriginal history, but this politically correct sidestep deflates the importance of the work to Aboriginal studies and history. Sheffield ably shows that the image of the Indian was flexible, malleable, and most importantly, as seen during the Joint Commission's investigations, open to manipulation by First Nations communities. Lastly, Sheffield notes that the modicum of respect created by the images, which evolved during the war years was not enough to counter the assimilationist agenda, formally enacted in the 1951 Indian Act.

Karl Hele
Dept. of Anthropology
University of Western Ontario
London, Ontario
Canada, N6A 5B8

Valaskakis, Gail Guthrie. Indian Country: Essays on Contemporary Native Culture. Waterloo: Wilfred Laurier University Press, 2005. ix, 304 pp., references, index. ISBN 0-88920-479-9 Paper CDN $28.95.

Indian Country is a collection of eight essays which reflect on land and treaty rights, media warriors, Indian princesses and squaws, pow wow, museums and art, research into Indian culture, and Native nationhood and membership (p.6). Though each essay can stand on its own, together they highlight a diversity of voices present in collective memory, tribal and national events, and real and imagined representations (p.7). Valaskakis argues that part of understanding the complex experience of being Native in North America today is the discovery of interrelated realities, be they individual and collective, past and present, Indian and Other (ibid.).

Throughout these essays, Valaskakis consistently and convincingly illustrates that there are entangled, multiple linkages between past, present, and future; earthly and spiritual realities; representation and lived experience. These connections are not always easy. Indeed, the contingent, contradictory, and transformative nature of culture as lived experience is an integral part of being Native.

Valaskakis uses the image of a braid to illustrate the tripartite link between Native identity, community, and heritage. She adds that these cultural strands are also interconnected with others in dialogic relationships built upon contested and shifting identities, alliances, and ideologies: Natives and newcomers are linked together in dominant and appropriated, imagined and experienced narratives (257). Moreover, past practice, drawn from history and ethnography, is inscribed in current narratives of struggle that simultaneously join and divide. Overall, Indian Country is a sophisticated work which greatly adds to discussions on contemporary Native experiences. Those interested in cultural contingencies and creativity, and issues of representation will not be disappointed by Valaskakis' contribution.

Sadie Donovan
Department of Anthropology
The University of Western Ontario
London, Ontario
Canada, N6A 5C2

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is essential for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and tools used to collect and analyze data. It highlights the need for consistent and reliable data collection processes to support informed decision-making.

3. The third part of the document focuses on the role of technology in data management and analysis. It discusses how modern software solutions can streamline data collection, storage, and reporting, thereby improving efficiency and accuracy.

4. The fourth part of the document addresses the challenges associated with data management, such as data quality, security, and privacy. It provides strategies to mitigate these risks and ensure that data is used responsibly and ethically.

5. The fifth part of the document concludes by summarizing the key findings and recommendations. It stresses the importance of ongoing monitoring and evaluation to ensure that data management practices remain effective and aligned with the organization's goals.

INDEX

- A Colonial Complex: South Carolina's Frontiers in the Era of the Yamasee War, 1680-1730*, author Steven J. Oatis, book reviewed by Karl Hele: 25: 630-631
- A Fatherly Eye: Indian Agents, Government Power, and Aboriginal Resistance in Ontario, 1918-1939*, author, Robin Jarvis Brownlie: book reviewed by David J. Norton: 25: 389-390
- A Tribute to Mary John and to the Synergy of Bridget Moran and Mary John*, article by Antonia Mills: 25: 529-551
- Aboriginal communities, in forest planning: 25: 51-91
- Aboriginal cosmology and Epistemology: 25: 417-432
- Aboriginal forest planning process: 25: 51-91
- Aboriginal Forest Planning: Lessons From Three Community Pilot Projects*, article by E. E. Sherry and S. M. Dewhurst and M. K. Karjala: 25: 51-91
- Aboriginal hunters and trappers: 25: 289-310
- Aboriginal Involvement In Community Development: The Case of Winnipeg's Spence Neighbourhood*, article by Jim Silver and Joan Hay and Peter Gorzen: 25: 239-288
- Aboriginal participation in resource management: 25: 289-310
- Aboriginal people: 25: 609-626
- Aboriginal people and lack of involvement: 25: 239-288
- Aboriginal people in inner city Winnipeg: 25: 239-288
- Aboriginal representation in the news: 25: 311-335
- Aboriginal resource management: 25: 139-153
- Aboriginal rights: 25: 395-416
- Aboriginal rights, expanding: 25: 395-416
- Aboriginal sport in Canada: 25: 355-372
- Aboriginal topics in the media: 25: 311-335
- Aboriginal women: 25: 1-34
- acculturation of Aboriginal sport in Canada: 25: 355-372
- age of Aboriginal women: 25: 1-34
- Akiwenzie-Damm, Kateri, author, My Heart is a Stray Bullet, book reviewed by Alfred Fisher: 25: 627
- Alnwick Residential School: 25: 93-137
- "Alpha: The Myths of Creations": 25: 463-475
- Altering Perceptions Through Indigenous Studies: The Effects of Immersion in Hawaiian Traditional Ecological Knowledge (TEK) on Non-Native and Part-Native Students*, article by Benjamin Charles Feinstein: 25: 477-490

- Angels of Light: A Mi'kmaq Myth in a New Archç*, article by Jennifer I. M Reid: 25: 463-475
- Anthropology and Ethnicity's Interplay Among First Nations in Canada: The Case of Quebec*, article by Cristhian Teófilo da Silva: 25: 553-569
- Aputosi Pii'kani: 25: 571-607
- Arapaho Indians: 25: 155-183
- Arctic Winter Games: 25: 355-372
- Asante, Elizabeth, A., article: Negotiating Identity: Aboriginal Women and the Politics of Self-Government: 25: 1-34
- Atsina Indians: 25: 155-183
- Australian football: 25: 215-237
- Australian Rules Football as Aboriginal Cultural Artifact*, article by Barry Judd: 25: 215-237
- Bailey, Beverley and Paul Betts, article: Sharing Complex Visions for Inclusive Schools: 25: 417-432
- Beaver Medicine: 25: 571-607
- Betts, Paul and Beverley Bailey, article: Sharing Complex Visions for Inclusive Schools: 25: 417-432
- Bill C-31: 25: 373-387
- Bill C-31-An Act To Amend the Indian Act: Notes Toward a Qualitative Analysis of Legislated Injustice*, research note by Martin John Cannon: 25: 373-387
- Boston, Christine, book review: Thinking About Cultural Resource Management: Essays From the Edge, author Thomas F. King: 25 628-629
- Bridget Moran: 25: 529-551
- Brown, Joseph Epes: 25: 571-607
- Brownlie, Robin Jarvis, author, A Fatherly Eye: Indian Agents, Government Power, and Aboriginal Resistance in Ontario, 1918-1939: book reviewed by David J. Norton: 25: 389-390
- Campbell, Joseph: 25: 571-607
- Cannon, Martin John, research note: Bill C-31 - An Act To Amend the Indian Act: Notes Toward a Qualitative Analysis of Legislated Injustice: 25: 373-387
- Carabiu Mountains, Alberta: 25: 185-206
- circumventing self-government: 25: 395-416
- collective Sami identity: 25: 433-461
- Colton, John W., article: Indigenous Tourism Development In Northern Canada: Beyond Economic Incentives: 25: 185-206

- community development, Winnipeg: 25: 239-288
- complexity theory: 25: 417-432
- contemporary debate: Sami Rights: 25: 417-432
- Convention 169 Concerning Indigenous and Tribal Peoples in Independent Countries*: 25: 417-432
- Cooper, Kelly and Leonard J. S Tsuji and Harry Manson, article: Utilization of Land Use Data to Identify Issues of Concern Related to Contamination at Site 050 of the Mid-Canada Radar Line: 25: 491-527
- Cummins, Bryan D., author First Nations First Dogs book reviewed by Karl Hele: 25: 627-628
- Cummins, Bryan and John Steckley, article: Pegahmagabow of Parry Island: From Jenness Informant To Individual: 25: 35-50
- da Silva, Cristhian Teófilo, article: Anthropology and Ethnicity's Interplay Among First Nations in Canada: The Case of Quebec: 25: 553-569
- definition of Native peoples: 25: 609-626
- demographic conditions, Aboriginal people: 25: 1-34
- Dene Games: 25: 355-372
- Dew Line: 25: 491-527
- Dewhurst, S. M and E. E. Sherry and M. K. Karjala, article: Aboriginal Forest Planning: Lessons From Three Community Pilot Projects: 25: 51-91
- Diamond Jenness: 25: 35-50
- Distant Early Warning Radar Line: 25: 491-527
- Distributed GIS: 25: 139-153
- Distributed GIS Solutions For Aboriginal Resource Management: The Case of the Labrador Innu*, by Jake Whalers: 25: 139-153
- Donovan, Sadie, book review: Indian Country: Essays on Contemporary Native Culture author Gail Guthrie Valaskakis: 25: 632-633
- economic poverty and development: 25: 185-206
- education of Aboriginal women: 25: 1-34
- environmental racism: 25: 207-214
- ethnic identity of Aboriginal women: 25: 1-34
- Ethnicity, First Nations 25: 553-569
- Fall Indians: 25: 155-183
- Feinstein Benjamin Charles, article: Altering Perceptions Through Indigenous Studies: The Effects of Immersion in Hawaiian Traditional Ecological Knowledge (TEK) on Non-Native and Part-Native Students: 25: 477-490
- First Nations: 25: 609-626

- First Nations First Dogs*, author Bryan D. Cummins, book reviewed by Karl Hele: 25: 627-628
- Fisher, Alfred, book review: Healing and Mental Health for Native Americans: Speaking in Red, eds, Ethan Nebelkopf and Mary Phillips: 25: 629-630
- Fisher, Alfred, book review: My Heart is a Stray Bullet, author Kateri Akiwenzie-Damm: 25: 627
- Food fathering, James Bay, Ontario: 25: 491-527
- Fools Crow, By James Welch: 25: 337-353
- forest planning: 25: 51-91
- Fort Albany First Nation: 25: 491-527
- foundations of Swedish Sami policy: 25: 433-461
- Francis Pegahmagabow of Parry Island: 25: 35-50
- Giles, Audrey R., article: The Acculturation Matrix and the Politics of Difference: Women and Dene Games: 25: 355-372
- GIS solutions: 25: 139-153
- Gorzen, Peter and Jim Silver and Joan Hay, article: Aboriginal Involvement In Community Development: The Case of Winnipeg's Spence Neighbourhood: 25: 239-288
- Gros Ventre: 25: 155-183
- Harding, Robert, article: The Media, Aboriginal People and Common Sense: 25: 311-335
- Hawaiian cultural knowledge: 25: 477-490
- Hawaiian Traditional Ecological Knowledge (TEK): 25: 477-490
- Hay, Joan and Jim Silver and Peter Gorzen, article: Aboriginal Involvement In Community Development: The Case of Winnipeg's Spence Neighbourhood: 25: 239-288
- Healing and Mental Health for Native Americans: Speaking in Red*, eds. Ethan Nebelkopf and Mary Phillips, book reviewed by Alfred Fisher: 25: 629-630
- Hele, Karl, book review: A Colonial Complex: South Carolina's Frontiers in the Era of the Yamasee War, 1680-1730, author Steven J. Oatis: 25: 630-631
- Hele, Karl, book review: First Nations First Dogs, author, Bryan D. Cummins: 25: 627-628
- Hele, Karl, book review: The Red Man's on the Warpath: The Image of the "Indian" and the Second World War, author, R. Scott Sheffield: 25: 631-632
- Hidatsa Indians ; 25: 155-183
- historical and archaeological interpretation, Gros Ventre/Fall Indians: 25:

155-183

historical media: 25: 311-335

homelessness initiative in Winnipeg: 25: 395-416

Hunter and Bureaucrats: Power, Knowledge, and Aboriginal-State Relations in the Southwest Yukon, author Paul Nadasdy, book reviewed by P. Whitney Lackenbauer: 25: 392-393 ideological implications of labeling: 25: 609-626 illegal logging: 25: 207-214

Indian: 25: 609-626

Indian Country: Essays on Contemporary Native Culture, author Gail Guthrie Valaskakis, book reviewed by Sadie Donovan: 25: 632-633

Indian Reserve forest management: 25: 207-214

Indian Timber Regulations: 25: 207-214

Indigenous cultural artifact: 25: 215-237

Indigenous knowledge as replacement for traditional ecological knowledge: 25: 289-310

Indigenous participation: 25: 215-237

Indigenous Peoples and the Right to Self-Determination: The Case of the Swedish Sami People, by Ulf Mörkenstam: 25: 433-461

Indigenous Rights as public policy: 25: 417-432

Indigenous thought: 25: 477-490

Indigenous Tourism Development In Northern Canada: Beyond Economic Incentives, article by John W. Colton: 25: 185-206 informant for Diamond Jenness, anthropologist: 25: 35-50 inner city, Winnipeg: 25: 239-288

Innu: 25: 139-153

integration of Aboriginal sport: 25: 355-372

James Welch: 25: 337-353

John Sunday, Ojibwa leader: 25: 93-137

John, Mary: 25: 529-551

Judd, Barry, article: Australian Rules Football as Aboriginal Cultural Artifact: 25: 215-237

Karjala, M. K. and E. E. Sherry and S. M. Dewhurst, article: Aboriginal Forest Planning: Lessons From Three Community Pilot Projects: 25: 51-91

King, Thomas F., author, Thinking About Cultural Resource Management: Essays From the Edge, book reviewed by Christine Boston: 25: 628-629

Kluskap: 25: 463-475

- Labrador Innu: 25: 139-153
- Lackenbauer, P. Whitney, book review: Hunter and Bureaucrats: Power, Knowledge, and Aboriginal-State Relations in the Southwest Yukon, author Paul Nadasdy: 25: 392-393
- "Lapp-Privileges": 25: 433-461
- Lapp (Sami): 25: 433-461
- Lapp administration 25: 417-432
- MacLean, Hope, article: Ojibwa Participation In Methodist Residential Schools In Upper Canada, 1828-1860: 25: 93-137
- Malainey, Mary E., article: The Gros Ventre/Fall Indians In Historical and Archaeological Interpretation: 25: 155-183
- Manson, Harry and Leonard J. S Tsuji and Kelly Cooper, article: Utilization of Land Use Data to Identify Issues of Concern Related to Contamination at Site 050 of the Mid-Canada Radar Line: 25: 491-527
- marginalization of Aboriginal sport: 25: 355-372
- Marn-Grook ("Original Aboriginal Football"): 25: 215-237
- Mary John: 25: 491-527
- MCRL 25: 491-527
- Membership Code, Six Nations: 25: 373-387
- Mid-Canada Radar Line: 25: 491-527
- Mid-Canada Radar Line: 25: 491-527
- Mi'kmaq, creation myth: 25: 463-475
- Mills, Antonia, article: A Tribute to Mary John and to the Synergy of Bridget Moran and Mary John: 25: 529-551
- minimum cultural learning: 25: 355-372
- minimum cultural shedding: 25: 355-372
- Moran, Bridget: 25: 529-551
- Mörkenstam Ulf, article: Indigenous Peoples and the Right to Self-Determination: The Case of the Swedish Sami People: 25: 433-461
- Morrison, Kenneth M., author, The Solidarity of Kin: Ethnohistory, Religious Studies, and the Algonian – French religious Encounter. book reviewed by David J. Norton: 25: 390-392
- most decorated Indian veteran, World War I, Francis Pegahmagabow: 25: 35-50
- Mount Elgin Residential School: 25: 93-137
- Mushkegowuk Tribal Council: 25: 491-527
- My Heart is a Stray Bullet*, author Kateri Akiwenzie-Damm: reviewed by Alfred Fisher: 25: 627
- Nadasdy, Paul author Hunter and Bureaucrats: Power, Knowledge, and Aboriginal-State Relations in the Southwest Yukon, book reviewed

- by P. Whitney Lackenbauer: 25: 392-393
- Native identities: 25: 609-626
- Native people: 25: 609-626
- Nature-Based Tourism Development: 25: 185-206
- Nebelkopf, Ethan and Mary Phillips eds. Healing and Mental Health for Native Americans: Speaking in Red, book reviewed by Alfred Fisher: 25: 629-630
- Negotiating Identity: Aboriginal Women and the Politics of Self-Government*, by Elizabeth A. Asante: 25: 1-34
- Nelson, Mark, article: Paradigm Shifts In Aboriginal Cultures?: Understanding TEK In Historical and Cultural Context: 25:289-310
- Newfoundland and Labrador Forestry Department: 25: 139-153
- Northern Cree: 25: 185-206
- Northern Games: 25: 355-372
- Norton, David J., book review: A Fatherly Eye: Indian Agents, Government Power, and Aboriginal Resistance in Ontario, 1918-1939 author, Robin Jarvis Brownlie: 25: 389-390
- Norton, David J., book review: The Solidarity of Kin: Ethnohistory, Religious Studies, and the Algonian – French religious Encounter, author, Kenneth M. Morrison: 25: 390-392
- Oatis, Steven J., author A Colonial Complex: South Carolina's Frontiers in the Era of the Yamasee War, 1680-1730, book reviewed by Karl Hele: 25: 630-631
- objectivication of Aboriginal knowledge: 25: 289-310
- Ojibwa leaders of Upper Canada: 25: 93-137
- Ojibwa Participation In Methodist Residential Schools In Upper Canada, 1828-1860*, article by Hope MacLean: 25: 93-137
- Oldman river: 25: 571-607
- Paradigm Shifts In Aboriginal Cultures?: Understanding TEK In Historical and Cultural Context*, article by Mark Nelson: 25: 289-310
- Parry Island Band of Ojibwa: 25: 35-50
- PCBs: 25: 491-527
- Pegahmagabow of Parry Island: From Jenness Informant To Individual*, article by John Steckley and Bryan Cummins: 25: 35-50
- Peigan Indian Reserve, Alberta: 25: 571-607
- Peter Jones, Ojibwa leader: 25: 93-137
- Pii'kani people: 25: 571-607
- Pikuni Indians: 25: 337-353
- Pinetree Radar Line: 25: 491-527
- pre-confederation Methodist residential schools: 25: 93-137

public policy: 25: 433-461

Quebec, First Nations: 25: 553-569

Quebec, sovereignty: 25: 553-569

Quiet Revolution, Quebec: 25: 553-569

Reid, Jennifer I. M., article: Angels of Light: A Mi'kmaq Myth in a New Archç: 25: 463-475 reindeer herding: 25: 417-432

Research Note: Bill 031 - An Act To Amend the Indian Act: Notes Toward a Qualitative Analysis of Legislated Injustice, by Martin John Cannon: 25:373-387

residential school Methodist: 25: 93-137

Retzlaff, Steffi, article: What's in a Name? The Politics of Labeling and Native Identity Constructions: 25: 609-626

Sacred Geography, Pii'kani: 25: 571-607

Sami Parliament Act of 1992(Sweden): 25: 417-432

Sami policy: 25: 433-461

Sami Rights as Indigenous Rights: 25: 417-432

Scholarship of Traditional Ecological Knowledge: 25: 289-310

searching for ancient wisdom: 25: 417-432

self-government: 25: 1-34

Sharing Complex Visions for Inclusive Schools, by Paul Betts and Beverley Bailey: 25: 417-432

Sheffield, R. Scott, author The Red Man's on the Warpath: The Image of the "Indian" and the Second World War, book reviewed by Karl Hele: 25: 631-632

Sherry, E. E. and S. M. Dewhurst and M. K. Karjala, article: Aboriginal Forest Planning: Lessons From Three Community Pilot Projects: 25: 51-91 shifting of membership categories: 25: 609-626

Shubenacadie Residential School: 25: 463-475

Silver, Jim and Joan Hay and Peter Gorzen, article: Aboriginal Involvement In Community Development: The Case of Winnipeg's Spence Neighbourhood: 25: 239-288

Six Nations Haudenosaunee: 25: 373-387

Six Nations Of Grand River Territory: 25: 373-387

Skw,lax(Little Shuswap Indian Band): 25: 51-91

Social Cohesion? A Critical Review of the Urban Aboriginal Strategy and Its Application to Address Homelessness in Winnipeg, article by Walker Ryan C.: 25: 395-416

- social welfare: 25: 395-416
- Spence Neighbourhood Association: 25: 239-288
- Spence Neighbourhood, Winnipeg: 25: 239-288
- staff capacity, Innu: 25: 139-153
- Steckley, John and Bryan Cummins, article: Pegahmagabow of Parry Island: From Jenness Informant To Individual: 25: 35-50
- stereotyping, in the media: 25: 311-335
- Stoney Creek Women*, by Bridget Moran: 25: 529-551
- Stoney Indian Reserves: 25: 207-214
- T'exelc(Williams Lake Indian Band): 25: 51-91
- The Acculturation Matrix and the Politics of Difference: Women and Dene Games*, by Audrey R. Giles: 25: 355-372
- The Globe and Mail*: 25: 311-335
- The Gros Ventre/Fall Indians In Historical and Archaeological Interpretation*, by Mary E. Malainey: 25: 155-183
- The Hero's Journey In James Welch's Fools Crow and Traditional Pikuni Sacred Geography*, by Jay Hansford C. Vest: 25: 337-353
- The Media, Aboriginal People and Common Sense*, article by Robert Harding: 25: 311-335
- The Oldman River and the Sacred: A Meditation Upon Aputosi Pii'kani Tradition and Environmental Ethics*, article by Jay Hansford C. Vest: 25: 571-607
- The Province (of Vancouver)*: 25: 311-335
- The Red Man's on the Warpath: The Image of the "Indian" and the Second World War*, author R. Scott Sheffield, book reviewed by Karl Hele: 25: 631-632
- The Solidarity of Kin: Ethnohistory, Religious Studies, and the Algonian - French religious Encounter*, author, Kenneth M. Morrison, book reviewed by David J. Norton: 25: 390-392
- The Vancouver Sun*: 25: 311-335
- Thinking About Cultural Resource Management: Essays From the Edge*, author Thomas F. King, book reviewed by Christine Boston: 25: 628-629
- TI'azt'en Nation: 25: 51-91
- Thompson, David: 25: 155-183
- tourism development, indigenious: 25: 185-206
- tourism development, Woodland Cree First Nation: 25: 185-206
- traditional ecological knowledge: 25: 289-310
- traditional leaders, Pii'kani: 25: 571-607
- traditional Native American world view, Pikuni: 25: 337-353
- traditional Pikuni Sacred geography: 25: 337-353

- traditional values, Pii'kani: 25: 571-607
- training in forestry practices: 25: 51-91
- Treaty Eight, Woodland Cree First Nation: 25: 185-206
- Tsuji, Leonard J. S., and Kelly Cooper and Harry Manson, article: Utilization of Land Use Data to Identify Issues of Concern Related to Contamination at Site 050 of the Mid-Canada Radar Line: 25: 491-527
- Tutelage, Development and Legitimacy: A Brief Critique of Canada's Indian Reserve Forest Management Regime*, article by Clinton N. Westman: 25: 207-214
- ultramodern knowledge: 25: 417-432
- urban Aboriginal strategy, Canadian: 25: 395-416
- Utilization of Land Use Data to Identify Issues of Concern Related to Contamination at Site 050 of the Mid-Canada Radar Line*, article by Leonard J. S. Tsuji and Kelly Cooper and Harry Manson: 25: 491-527
- Valaskakis, Gail Guthrie, author Indian Country: Essays on Contemporary Native Culture book reviewed by Sadie Donovan: 25: 632-633
- Vest, Jay Hansford C., article: The Hero's Journey In James Welch's Fools Crow and Traditional Pikuni Sacred Geography: 25: 337-353
- Vest, Jay Hansford C., article: The Oldman River and the Sacred: A Meditation Upon Aputosi Pii'kani Tradition and Environmental Ethics: 25: 571-607
- Walker Ryan C., article: Social Cohesion? A Critical Review of the Urban Aboriginal Strategy and Its Application to Address Homelessness in Winnipeg: 25: 395-416
- Welch, James: 25: 337-353
- Western thought: 25: 477-490
- Westman, Clinton N., article: Tutelage, Development and Legitimacy: A Brief Critique of Canada's Indian Reserve Forest Management Regime: 25: 207-214
- Whalers, Jake, article: Distributed GIS Solutions For Aboriginal Resource Management: The Case of the Labrador Innu: 25: 139-153
- What's in a Name? The Politics of Labeling and Native Identity Constructions*, article by Steffi Retzlaff: 25: 609-626
- Woodland Cree First Nation: 25: 185-206
- Yellow Kidney: 25: 571-607